

MEET THE NEXT GENERATION OF ARTS LEADERS

The Diversity in Arts Leadership (DIAL) intern program invests in college students from backgrounds underrepresented in the arts field to become future arts leaders. Americans for the Arts along with its national partners, Metro Arts: Nashville Office of Arts + Culture and New Jersey State Council on the Arts, match interns with cultural organizations and mentors for an invigorating summer of professional and personal growth.

Americans for the Arts celebrates the 2021 DIAL cohort

Alexander Gomes

Aurimar Baez-Collazo

Brian Le

Camryn Morrow

Chloe Little

Emily Springer

Fabia St. Juste

Grace Kim

Harrison Clark

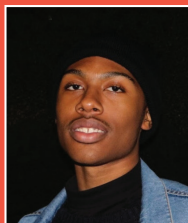

Jennifer Villa

Kaleb Stevens

Austin Kim

Leon Caleb Christian

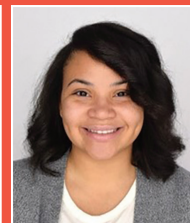

Malcolm Davis

Maya Brown

Maya Mangum

Mikayla Bush

Mikayla Gary

Mimi Laws

Nelly Sanchez

Paula Wilson

Rafael Abdulmajid

Randy Campo

Sarah Cecilia Bukowski

Vivian Gonzalez

Americans for the Arts' Diversity in Arts Leadership internship program has supported nearly 300 students nationally in its 29-year history. We thank the many partners who have made this program possible through their support including current donors:

Con Edison | Howard Gilman Foundation | Kutya Major Foundation | Martha Rivers Ingram Advised Fund at the Community Foundation of Middle Tennessee

Learn more about the DIAL program at:
www.AmericansForTheArts.org/DIAL

